FRIDAY FEBRUARY 3.

LOCAL OPTION IN MICHIGAN.

A dispatch from Detroit dated the first of the month says that the counties of Otago and Ingham voted on the local option question on Tuesday, and resulted in prohibition after the first of May. The dispatch goes on to say that the city of Lansing unexpectedly went "dry" about 2,000. The prohibition vote is at least 800 larger than when the amendment was voted on at the last state election. There are now seventeen counties that have taken advantage of the local option law, while in nearly twenty more petitions for elections are being circulated.

It will be seen by this dispatch that county prohibition is meeting with signal success in Michigan. But there is one feature connected with the county prohibition movement in that state which will strike sober minded people with surprise. It is this, that the professional party politicians, of the order of Professor Dickie and St. John, who make speeches and run for office, have not only not worked for local prohibition, but have discouraged it. And the Detroit dispatch further says that the republicans, who passed the law, have, on the contrary, pushed the movement wherever there was thought to be a chance for its success, and they have been aided by a small percentage of temperance democrats. At the voting the rank and file of the third party have brought out the full strength of the prohibitionists, regardless of the warnings of their leaders, who have declared all along that the local option law was a mere sop thrown to the prohibitionists, and would never be seriously favored by the republicans. In two counties, Jackson and Washtenaw, brewers tried to get out injunctions restraining the clerks of the counties from issuing writs of election, the claim being that the law was unconstitutional. Both attempts failed, the judges holding that they had no jurisdiction in the matter.

If permanent temperance reform is ever secured in this country—that is the abolition of the saloon—it will be by the element in the republican party, and not by any set of the third party prohibitionists.

A statistician in New York has been figuring on the population of this country. The immigration since 1850 has reached a little over four millions, and reckoning the population at the usual rate of increase for excess of births over deaths, namely 2 per cent yearly, and adding immigration officially reported since the date of the census, the population January 1, 1888, should be a little more than 62,600,000. This reckoning excludes immigration from Canada since July 1, 1885, which has not been officially reported at all, because in the absence of necessary provisions of law, the officials of the treasury department have been unable to obtain information which they deem reliable as to the number coming into the country across the Canadian or the Mexican border. If allowance be made for immigration from Canada, estimated at about the rate officially reported prior to 1885, the population January 1, 1888, would somewhat exceed 63,000,000. It has come to pass at last, that the natural increase by excess of births over deaths is probably more than 100,000 each month. If this natural increase continues until the next census, without abatement of the great tide of immigration which for seven years past has been flowing so steadily toward this country, the population when the next census is taken, seems likely to exceed 67,000,000.

The local option bill which has been introduced in the Iowa legislature was drawn with care and embodies many provisions for application to cities where the public sentiment is not strong enough to enforce prohibition. By its terms a hundred freeholders in any city of 10,000 population may petition the council for an election to determine whether licenses shall be issued or not, and such elections are to be held biennially. If a majority vote to license applicants will have to file a bond of $3,000 and the minimum annual tax (to be paid in full when the license is issued) will be $1,000. Other provisions forbid the sale of liquor to minors, habitual drunkards, or any other person whose relatives or guardian have given notice that liquor must not be sold to him. One section provides that whenever a person who is at the head of a family or has others dependent upon him for support is convicted of intoxication the saloon-keeper who supplied him with liquor shall be compelled to pay them a sum sufficient for their support during the term of imprisonment. Another section makes the saloon-keeper liable for any damages which may occur to the family of a person to whom he has sold liquor.

It is there not power enough in the state of Iowa to enforce the prohibitory law, it is safe to conclude that local option, should it become a law, would also fail of enforcement. There should be no compromise with the saloon party. The prohibitory law of Iowa is on the statute books, and every officer of the law is under solemn obligations to enforce it. To enact the local option law would be to surrender to the law-breakers, and it would mean nothing less than a victory for those whose business it is to degrade politics and society by placing the saloon out of the reach of the law.

The defenders of the law in Iowa, if there are such to be found in the state, should have the same spirit and the same courage of the constable in the Old Bay state, who once declared that to put him down the crowd would have to whip the entire state of Massachusetts.

A Washington dispatch to the Milwaukee Sentinel gives the information that Congressman Guenther has found another world to conquer, or what is the same thing, another district to run in. The correspondent goes on to say that Delaney's exile in Alaska and Bragg's in Mexico seem to presage democratic success in the Second district and Mr. Guenther long ago made up his mind that Pat O'Meara would be his successor. Whether he is right remains to be seen. When a congressional district has once been demoralized there is no telling what will be done afterwards. This was seen in the first district when Doanville, without an effort, came within 600 votes of beating Casswell in the campaign following Olesley Williams' defeat. But Guenther never speculates unless he has a dead sure thing. He will not run, or even vote for a congressman in the Second district in this year of grace. The particular bait which Mr. Guenther now has his eye on is Mr. Hudd's. In the Fifth district, with its large German vote and his lack, Richard hopes to make another "filly." I am informed on good authority that Senator Sawyer will not oppose, if he does not aid him, and that already a swelling correspondent assures Mr. Guenther that he has willing friends all along the shore. Mr. Hudd as yet is not aware of the Waterloo awaiting him.

"In making up our forecast last Saturday morning," explains the editor of a Texas paper, "our foreman got a lot of oats misplaced, and in the sporting column where we intended to show the portraits of several of the most noted prize fighters of the country, there appeared the portraits of a number of prominent congressmen instead. We had intended to say nothing of the blunder, believing it to be hardly worth mentioning, but we are compelled to make this explanation on account of having received letters from nearly all the prize fighters complaining in pretty strong terms of the injustice done them." Of course, the prize-fighters had good reason to feel hurt. As bad as they are, they don't want to be taken for southern democratic congressmen.

Illustrative of the democratic harmony in New York, from the Tribune: "A peer uses the ballot figures of the democratic state committee at Albany as a basis for predicting that neither Governor Eliot nor President Cleveland will get the presidential nomination. Seventeen of this committee voted for a Cleveland man, and seventeen for a Hill man. Dividing 1888 by 17, a continuous remainder of 1 is the result. Hence the peer concludes that Hill and Cleveland will come within one of the nomination, the prize being secured by a 'dark horse.'"

A petition has been presented in the senate by Senator Spooner, from John A. Johnson, president of the Fuller & Johnson manufacturing company, of Madison, for the abolition of all import duties on agricultural machinery, such as plows, harrows and hay and harvesting machinery, on the ground that such duties were superfluous and useless and that no agricultural machinery would be imported if the duties were wholly discontinued.

Senator John C. Spooner will go to New York to deliver a speech on Lincoln, February 12. Senator Sherman will also make a speech at the same time. Senator Spooner is now regarded as one of the leading orators in the senate. Whenever he speaks, he attracts attention, and always says something worth hearing.

It is said that the sale of liquor in the restaurant of the house of representatives is carried on in the most open manner and in direct violation of a joint rule which forbids such sale under penalty of forfeiture of privilege. But the explanation is that a democratic house couldn't run without a liquor shop to give it enthusiasm.

There is a report that ex-Senator Cameron, of La Crosse, will allow his name to go before the next republican state convention as a candidate for governor. Mr. Cameron is a strong man. But not only that, he is one of the best men in this state. His long public record is without a blemish, and in private life there is not a stain on his character.

A very successful Sunday school ball fight was recently given in Chilhuahua, Mexico. The young men of the Sunday school took part in it, and the proceeds were devoted to the interior adornment of the parish church. There is a change for Minister Bragg to do some excellent missionary work in Mexico.

A point worth remembering, that Senator Rangan, of Texas, held at the close of the war that the United States ought to assume the confederate debt. It will therefore create no surprise that the Texas senator voted against a pension to Mrs. Logan.

Senator Keena, made an attempt to answer Sherman's speech on the tariff question. On the same day there was an earthquake in the British Isles. This illustrates how far reaching is the influence of the senator from West Virginia.

The democratic paper in Washington says that Mr. Cleveland is a good walker. To this has been added the remark that he will march fourth out of the white house in 1889.

POWDER MILL EXPLOSION.

Special to the Gazette.
CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 3.—A shock something like an earthquake was felt here at seven o'clock this morning. The cause was subsequently learned to be a terrific explosion a few miles from the city in Newbury township, it being the blasting mill of the Austin Powder Co. Not a vestige of the building or contents can be found; a big hole in the ground is all. The mill had just been started up by Ruben Wright, who was instantly killed. He was the only person in the mill at the time. The mill is some distance from other buildings, which prevented a greater loss of life. The report of the explosion was heard for miles. Windows a mile away were shattered, and there was great excitement in the neighborhood. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

LEGISLATION IN IOWA.

The Iowa Railway Bill recommended—
—A lively debate on the measure to prohibit sales of tobacco to boys under sixteen years of age.
The House, Feb. 3.—Several senators yesterday received telegrams from railway employes begging them to go slow in doing anything that would affect their wages, as proposed by Judge McMill Wednesday in opposing the Two-Cent bill. The measure was the Young Two-Cent bill, and after debate it was recommended by a vote of 31 to 17.

In the House Russell's bill to repeal the law allowing testimony to be given to railroads was engrossed. Mr. Bowen introduced a bill to allow married women to sue their husbands for support in certain cases. The bill to prohibit sales of tobacco to minors under 16 was taken up. Mr. Hitchcock moved to include legislators, state officers and prosecutors, and said he wanted to defend boys from a bad example. Mr. Gray proposed to have the penalties apply to boys buying, but all these were voted down and the bill was engrossed by two to one, and the vote may be regarded as a test of summary legislation. Mr. Russell introduced a bill setting apart 1 per cent of insurance taxes as a fund for disabled members of life companies, and providing the method of applying it.

The House Committee on Schools have agreed to report in favor of local option in furnishing text-books free to pupils.

STOUT CITY, Ia., Feb. 3.—The Jobbers' Association of this place adopted yesterday a resolution to the legislature protesting against the repeal of the law which forbids the sale of liquor to minors, and in private life there is not a stain on his character.

MINNESOTA REPUBLICAN CLUB CONVENTION.
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 3.—The convention of Minnesota Republican clubs assembled here yesterday afternoon, with about 300 delegates present from every county. T. E. Seale, of Winona County, was chosen temporary chairman. Speeches were made by several of the prominent delegates, who said they were not assembled to formulate a policy or favor the nomination of any presidential candidate, but to organize so as to give the candidate nominated full support.

Reading Strikers Beginning to Employ Violent Measures.

AN ASSAULT ON NON-UNION MINERS.

Several Hungarians and Poles Severely Clubbed—A Division in the Strikers' Ranks—Reading's Charter Can't Be Annulled.

VIOLENCE BY STRIKERS.

Reading, Pa., Feb. 3.—The first serious outbreak since the beginning of the troubles in the Schuylkill mining regions occurred yesterday. The trouble was at the William Penn mine, which started up Wednesday independently of the Knights. A large lot of rocks were about the mine, but while twenty Hungarians and Poles were on their way to the mines before daylight about an equal number of strikers in ambush attacked them, and with clubs beat them in a terrible manner. The foreigners were threatened with instant death if they ever attempted to go to work again. There was great excitement for a time, and it would have taken but very little more to precipitate a riot and bloodshed.

There is a particular unity shown against these foreigners by the strikers. This outbreak forcibly reminded the operators of the mine that more serious trouble might be apprehended and they have tripled their police force, the members of which are all heavily armed with revolvers. Many of the miners were conducted home last night under the protection of these police, and will be escorted back to the mines in the same way.

The seeming success of the William Penn mine in getting men has made the strikers desperate. Wednesday night a meeting, at which 500 men were present, was held to consider the action of the strikers committee in giving the men permission to return to work at the individual collieries. The meeting finally passed a resolution to continue the strike even at mines operated by individuals as long as the collieries shipped over the Reading railroad.

The coal regions are in a ferment of excitement. The operators of the individual mines claim that Wednesday night's meeting was sprung upon the miners; that its decision was not an honest expression of opinion, and that the conservative miners were not invited.

The individual collieries working Wednesday were all in operation yesterday. The Reading Company is trying to start some of its principal collieries also. Several of their mines in the Brookside district are already in operation.

The strikers yesterday received contributions to the amount of $2,500, of which $1,200 was distributed among the needy. The leaders of the strike say that the Executive Board of the Reading will officially endorse the strike on Monday.

Lawyers received here show that an outbreak is likely to occur at Shamokin, Shenandoah and Mahanoy Plains at any moment. The men are becoming desperate.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 3.—A committee representing the Reading strike yesterday called the attention of Attorney-General Kirkpatrick to the fact that the Reading Company is engaged in mining coal, in addition to performing the duties of a common carrier. The attorney-general asked them if they had no other points on which to base their request for action by the state against the company. He also called their attention to the fact that the coal mines owned by the Reading Company are situated under a legislative charter granted before the constitutional provision referred to had been enacted, and that the federal courts had already held that such charter could not be annulled.

TWO IMPORTANT CASES.

The Bleasdale and the Rich Divorce Suits Receive Judicial Attention.

Mrs. Rich Asked to Make Her Amended Answer More Definite.

Alimony in the Bleasdale divorce case was permanently fixed this morning. Judge Bennett directed the findings and fixed the same which the defendant should pay, his decision being as follows:

That permanent alimony he shall pay $10.00.

That he shall pay the infidelity of the plaintiff, amounting to the sum of $305.36.

That he shall pay the taxable costs of the now-flashed action.

That he shall pay until the further order of the court an allowance to his daughter Dollie the sum of $150 a year.

It was further ordered that the defendant should give sufficient security to the plaintiff for the payment of the foregoing sum in case the same are not paid at once.

In the Rich case Judge Bennett has heard the arguments on a motion that Mrs. Rich's amended answer be made more definite and certain.

The answer in question bears the date of January 10th, but has not yet been filed with the court. It is a document containing several very sensational features. The charges made by the plaintiff are denied in toto, and counter-charges are made to the effect that the plaintiff has sustained improper relations with various women at Woodstock, Harvard, Desplaines and Chicago.

It is on these last points that the attorneys for the plaintiff desire more light. None of the charges bear any information as to either names or dates, and are incomplete in other points a well. Judge Bennett has taken the matter under advisement.

—The fourth annual party of the Bower City Division, No. 113, Order of Railway Conductors, took place last evening at the Armory, there being large attendance, and everything being harmoniously and to the pleasure and enjoyment of all. Smith's orchestra furnished the music, and all details of the management were planned and executed for the accommodation of guests. The party was a grand success.

—An alarm of fire was sounded on the west side fire bell at 6:53 last evening, calling the fire department to the restaurant of Mr. A. Collins, West Milwaukee street. The continued ringing of the bells during the day, while testing the fire alarm, threw the boys "off guard," and the three quick taps on the bell appeared to bewilder all for a time. The department "got there" just the same. The cause of the alarm was the burning of a window curtain in the above named establishment, which ignited from a lamp in the kitchen. No particular damage resulted, although there was considerable excitement in the building for a few minutes.

—Trinity church choir enjoyed a pleasant sleigh ride last evening to "Buckleton Farm." Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Woodruff, about forty were transported to the farm—the vehicle being an elegantly doctored, with four splendid horses, in the hands of a skillful driver. The trip was quickly made and all were made welcome and kindly cared for. The evening was spent in pleasant games and music—with many other pleasing little incidents and, which in to make the hours more pleasant. Soon after nine o'clock the boys were gathered around a beautifully spread table, and the "Doxology" pealed out from the sweet voices strengthened by a back ground of older voices. A busy attention to the wants of the inn-boys was next in order. Refreshments were passed to the elder ones. Duets, quartettes, bynams and a jolly ride home ended a charming time. All praise and thanks to the projectors of that pleasant episode in life.

SCHOOL MA'AMS IN SESSION.

An Interesting Roomful at the High School Building To-day.

The Third Annual Teachers' Institute Opens With Flattering Prospects.

Sixty pretty school ma'ams sat in the high school this morning. To be sure there were half a dozen of the sterner sex present, but they seemed swallowed up in oblivion.

The third annual teachers' institute for Rock county graded schools had just been called to order. Superintendent Keyes, who was in charge, announced as the first exercise, a roll call with responses in the form of educational maxims. Many of the responses were of much interest. Among them were the following:

"High morality, like high intelligence, is of slow growth."

"First impressions last longest."

"Be what your friends think you are; avoid being what your enemies say you to be."

"Character outweighs mere intellect."

"It is better to fall short of a high mark than to stop at a low one."

"What sculpture is to the block of marble, education is to the human mind."

The first address of the morning was by Superintendent Keyes, and had for a subject "Our Purpose."

"We come here," said Mr. Keyes, "that we may be made better teachers; but we must remember that the conductor of the institute can only do part of this. There must be work on both sides. A conductor who endeavors to stir up a body that is passive and inert in his hands, cannot reach the best results."

The speaker suggested that although the institutes were valuable in many ways, they were especially valuable because they gave teachers an opportunity to study one another's methods of work. He sketched briefly the programme to be carried out at the present meeting, and gave hints on how the work might best be accomplished.

At 9:30 Professor H. D. Maxson, of the Whitewater Normal School, was announced to address the institute on "Language."

"I have not out and dried anything on this subject," began Professor Maxson, "but neglected to, not because I did not consider the occasion worthy of something to cut and dried, nor because I didn't wish to incur the labor of having something out and dried, but because with such a broad subject I couldn't decide what to cut and dry first."

"In beginning I might say that book-keeping can be successfully taught unless the teacher has at heart the question, 'Why is this branch studied? What results do I seek to gain?'"

Among language teachers, the speaker said, it was coming to be realized that grammar as it had usually been taught, really deserved a place in the modern school. There was a growing belief that it tended to attain the end sought. Exercises were then given illustrating the various phases of language work. The questions asked showed that the teachers entered into the spirit of the work thoroughly.

Following Prof. Maxson's talk came an exercise in music by Mrs. E. H. Knapp, also of the Whitewater Normal school. Mrs. Knapp explained by black board work and practical illustrations the stages of musical training suitable for the various grades in public schools. She insisted that even a minute day devoted to music would, in the course of the year, accomplish remarkable results.

Miss Margaret Conklin's address on "Geography" was the last on the morning programme. The subject was taken up again in the afternoon and was discussed with much profit.

Immediately after the noon intermission Professor H. D. Maxson gave a number of valuable ideas on "Reading." The second paper was to have been by Superintendent Keyes, but at this point the programme was changed and an exercise in penmanship, under the charge of Professor J. B. Silsbee, was introduced. Miss Corbally's second paper on geography and another lesson in music by Mrs. E. H. Knapp followed; the question box was opened and at 4:45 the meeting adjourned until to-morrow.

Besides those whose names were mentioned on the programme, there were present from out of town, Professor W. D. Parker, from River Falls, and Superintendent J. H. Groesbeck, of Johnson.

Delegations of teachers from Beloit, Janesville and Clinton are expected to-morrow.

This evening Professor Maxson will lecture at Cannon's hall on "Anarchy or Communism." Professor Maxson's ability is so well known among Janesville people, that a large audience should be assured.

WISCONSIN FISH INTERESTS.

The fish interests of Wisconsin are of much more importance than the general public, owing to a lack of information on the subject, has heretofore believed. The legislature, in 1885, enacted a law requiring the various fish wardens of the state to render their reports to the president of the state fish commissioners. These reports are now in for the year 1887, and President Dunning is enabled to give to the public some interesting facts taken from them. These reports relate only to Lakes Michigan and Superior. The number of pounds of fish caught in these lakes during the year was 7,550,740; value $23,263.93; number of fish 1,530,378.63; number of men employed 530; number of boats used 350; value of boats, $115,073; value of fishing property, $438,000.28.

Superintendent Novins, of the state fish hatchery, believes that if the fishing interests of the Mississippi, Wisconsin, Rock, Fox and other rivers, as well as those of the numerous inland lakes of the state, were taken into consideration, the aggregate value of the property involved would reach at least $1,000,000, while the value of all the fish caught would be correspondingly increased from $23,263.93 to $1,000,000.
